PENNANT RACE FOR COUNTIES ON FIELD DAYS

Four Prizes Will Be Offered to Localities Having Highest Representation June 21-22.

FARM BUREAU FEATURED

Special Work Is Planned for State Members—Special Day for Farmers of Boone County.

Four pennants, each one fit to grace the leading car in any future county tour, will be awarded for the four best attendance records made by Missouri counties during Farmers' Field Days, June 21 and 22, at the Missouri College of Agriculture.

In figuring the final score of each Missouri county represented by visitors on these two days, the total number of persons registered from a county will be multiplied by the number of miles between their county seat and Columbia. This gives all counties an equal chance. This Field Day Pennant Race is going to be a close contest between a number of counties where parties are already being organized to make this tour.

Visitors from all parts of the state, whether they travel by train or by automobile, should register at the main information booth as soon as they reach the University Farm. By registering here they will secure the proper credit for their attendance from their county and will receive a 12-page booklet, which will serve as a guide to all points of interest on the 1000 acres of the University Farm and campus.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 21, 22 and 23 will be the great days for the farmers of Missouri, and especially for Farm Bureau members. On these dates will occur a succession of one-day meetings, the first state-wide meetings of their kind ever held in Missouri. The farmers and their families will meet to exchange views and experiences, to dine together, to rest together, and to inform themselves concerning the most recent development of agricultural knowledge at their state experiment station.

June 21 and 22 have been designated Farmers' Field Days, and on each of these days farmers from all parts of Missouri will visit their College of Agriculture at Columbia to inspect the work that is being carried forward by the Agricultural Experiment Station to advance public welfare by solving farm and household problems. On these two days individuals, families, community delegations, farm bureau groups and county groups will travel to Columbia from all parts of the state. A great many will come in motor cars, bringing the entire family and a basket dinner. The occasion will combine all the attractions of an educational tour and a summer picnic.

June 23 has been set apart as Boone County Day—with an invitation to the farm families of Boone County to make this the date of the largest meeting of Boone County farmers ever held. The newly-organized Farm Bureau in Boone County will take advantage of this opportunity to acquaint its members more intimately with each other and with the institution whose constant service to agriculture forms the basis of the organization.

Speaking for the College of Agriculture, Dean F. B. Mumford very clearly explains the purpose of Farmers' Field Days as now established for the first time in Missouri. He says: "On these two days we are inviting the farmers of Missouri to visit the College of Agriculture primarily for the purpose of examining the results of our field experiments, and to see the equipment of the department of animal husbandry, poultry husbandry, soils, field crops, veterinary science, entomology, horticulture and home economics."

"These field days will take the place of the farmers' picnics which were so popular last year. More than 3,000 farmers from 6 counties visiting the College of Agriculture in 1921."

"We are asking all county agents and farm bureaus, farm clubs, granges and other organizations to plan their visit to the College of Agriculture on one or both of the dates mentioned. Visitors are invited to bring their lunches and come by train, automobile, or other means. Every effort will be made to provide for the comfort of visitors on these days."

Missouri farm bureaus, from the new member to President Boland of the Missouri Farm Federation heartily approve the purpose of this new event in the yearly calendar. Individually or in organized groups, also, a very large number of farm bureau members will actually visit the College on one of the days designated. Great benefit both to the members and to the county and state organizations cannot fail to result from this bringing together of rural community leaders from all parts of the state for a better understanding of one another and of the men who are employed to develop more effective methods of production and distribution.

CROP RETURNS FOR JUNE ARE MADE PUBLIC

Wheat Prospects Indicate 43,733,000 Bushels—Corn Acreage Increases by 365,000.

OATS PROSPECT IS POOR

Chinch Bugs Menace Corn Crop in Several Counties—Big Apple Yield Is Promised in Fall.

Missouri wheat prospects now indicate 43,733,000 bushels, according to the June returns received by E. A. Logan and Jewell Mayes of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service. The oats crop will yield 29,363,000 bushels; and there will be 4,261,000 tons of hay. Prospects point to the increase of 365,000 acres over the 6,096,000 acres of corn last year.

Wheat, now at 83 per cent, indicates an average yield of 14.05 bushels to the acre, compared to 82 per cent last year, the ten-year average being 77 per cent. Wheat did not develop during May as in the usual year. It was too wet during the preceding months, and the crop, on the flat lands, that became yellow has never recovered. The result is short heads. Well-drained bottom lands and hills are doing promising. The best wheat, in general, is in the northern third of the state. Lodging has occurred at scattered points, and much rust is reported. There are chinch bugs in many counties. They are worse on the east side of the state north of the Missouri river. The crop is beginning to ripen in southern sections, where cutting begins by the 15. Harvesting will be general in two weeks.

The planting of corn was late, due to rains, but generally stands are good. Work has been delayed most in Central Missouri. Cultivation of the first plantings is quite general throughout the state, with some corn plowed the third time. Many fields are rough and hard to work. Cut-worms were bad during the cold spells, and considerable fear is expressed for the corn crop from chinch bugs in Audrain, Callaway, Jefferson, Johnson, Iron, Lewis, Pettis, Ralls, St. Louis, Shelby and Warren counties, where this is the third consecutive year of this insect menace.

The acreage of oats is the smallest, and the prospect is the poorest for several years, as the condition in 1921 was 77 per cent and is now 67 per cent, with the ten-year average at 84 per cent. The oats crop was sown under adverse conditions, and with little grain in May, is still small and seedy. Present conditions are that 40 per cent of the reduction in oats acreage has been planted to corn. While there will be some idle land, the balance of the acreage will be sown largely to millet, soybeans and sorghum. Sudan grass will be needed more generally than usual. Soybeans are being tried for the first time by many farmers.

Hay is 89 per cent normal, indicating 125 tons to the acre, or 4,261,000 tons. Many meadows are short and weedy. Red clover is the best for several years and is ready to harvest, but much of the crop is badly mildewed. Alfalfa is 91 per cent with first cutting being harvested on 178,000 acres, with good prospects in some sections.

First prospects are promising. A heavy apple crop is looked forward to in the fall. Peaches are developing well. Pears are the poorest fruit crop prospect. Cherries are plentiful and grapes carry heavy blossoms. Gooseberries have been plentiful, and the strawberry crop was large. Tann and wild blackberries and raspberries promise another big crop. Local hailstorms did some damage during May.

MANY ASK FOR SUMMER DATA

Inquiries Indicate Increase in Student Enrollment Over Last Year.

"Judging from the number of inquiries received in this office and the number of certificates of credits that have been sent to us, it appears that the enrollment in the summer term, which opens June 19, will be larger than usual. About a thousand students were enrolled in the summer term of 1921. We should this summer, according to the present outlook, exceed that number," said Frank Chambers, registrar of the University.

"It appears from the data at hand in this office that a greater number of students interested in advanced work in the School of Education are applying for admission this summer than has been true in any previous summer," he said. This demand has been anticipated in the provision of an extensive program of advanced courses in the field of education, especially for superintendents, high school teachers and principals.

LOCAL POST TRIES TO GET LEGION CONFERENCE

California Has Good Chance for Eighth Congressional District Meeting.

A strong effort will be made in the next few days by the Herbert Williams Post, No. 202, American Legion, to land the coming eighth congressional district conference for Columbia.

Of the fifteen posts in the district which would be represented at the conference, the local post is the largest. Through its committee appointed to obtain the conference, it is stressing the facts that a large group of vocational and disabled service men are located here.

No change was made in the House appropriation for enlisted personnel, both bills providing for 86,000 men for the navy and 19,500 for the Marine Corps.

Mrs. Mary Tucker, Only Woman Confederate Veteran in Missouri

Mrs. Mary Ward Tucker, 1 Watson place, is the only woman in the state of Missouri who is a veteran of the Confederacy. Mrs. Tucker was made a veteran in August, 1919, for the service she rendered the Southern side during the Civil War. The John S. Marmaduke chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in 1920, at its annual celebration of the birthday of Robert E. Lee, awarded Mrs. Tucker, together with several other veterans of this camp, the Southern cross of honor.

When she was about 17 years old, Mrs. Tucker was taken prisoner of war and confined in the Gratiot Military Prison in St. Louis for three weeks. She was paroled for two weeks and then banished from the state of Missouri by General Rosecrans. She was then sent under guard to Springfield, Ill., with her mother, who had also been imprisoned three weeks before Mrs. Tucker. This was in the winter of 1864. When the war ended in 1865, they returned to Missouri.

The reason for Mrs. Tucker's incarceration was that she aided her sister, Mrs. Albert Smith, who was a southern spy, to escape from St. Louis. Mrs. Smith in turn had helped a brother of their's who had been sent to St. Louis by General Sterling Price to obtain some information.

Mrs. Tucker said, upon being asked how she was treated by the Northerners, that aside from having rather poor fare the worst thing that was done to her was to make her wear some handcuffs for a short time. Her mother was taken ill with diphtheria and was treated very well until she had recovered and was able to travel to Illinois.

Mrs. Tucker lives with her daughter, Mrs. Theodosia Calloway, who teaches mathematics at Stephens College.
